ATTORNEY GENERAL TO RULE ON BOND MUDDLE OF COUNTY

FINANCE COMMITTEE "PASSES BUCK" TO ATTORNEY MORGAN.

MEETING IS SECRET Attempt to Lock Door During Meeting in Which Details Are Kept Secret.

Members of the Rock county board finance committee on Thursday decided they couldn't solve the muddle they got into over the sale of the Rock county highway bonds and so they "passed the buck" to the attorney general.

Committee members indicated that they didn't know which way to turn, since charges have been advanced as to the method of the sale of the $150,000 worth of bonds. No one was advised during an executive session to have the attorney general pass on the legality of their action in awarding the bonds to the Merchants and Savings bank, which issued certificates of deposits, which do not bear interest.

Meanwhile all highway improvement in Rock county including the letting of the bid for the concrete stretch from Rock river north to Indian Ford is at a standstill. The work of building the extension to Indian Ford now under way is being kept going by money from the revolving fund. The county needs the cash from the sale of the bonds to pay for the highway work ordered but apparently the award has been muddled again.

Committee Meeting.

The finance committee meeting in the court house was prone to keep secret the handling of the county's bond matters. They started to meet in the office of the county clerk, M. P. Richardson, member of the county board, acted in the place of District Attorney S. Danneberg, who is in Beloit on criminal cases.

Simon Smith, chairman, decided that the public of Rock county was not interested in the details of how the money was handled, and the matter of selling $150,000 worth of bonds was continued on page 5.

"I stand by all I said, every word of it. I shan't repudiate a single word I said, and I see nothing un-American in it, even if Senator McCormick does."

Speaking at a luncheon given by the English Speaking Union at London on Tuesday, Admiral Sims was reported to have made a bitter attack on Irish sympathizers in America. He was said to have declared: "They are like zebras—either black horses with white stripes or white horses with black stripes. But we know they are not horses—they are asses. Even if they are, however, they have a vote, and there are lots of them." He declared the persons assailed were Americans "when they were not, but since they are now, they are making war on America today," according to cabled versions of the admiral's remarks.

ATTORNEYS BATTLE OVER WITNESSES IN MURDER TRIAL

SHARP CLASHES. MARK SECOND DAY IN DARTINGTON COURT.

EVENTS OUTLINED Statements on Stand Conflict; Crowds Continue to Pack Courtroom.

[By Staff Correspondent.]

BULLETIN.

Dartington.—The state rested its case, shortly after the court was called Thursday afternoon. Six character witnesses for the defense have appeared on the stand and it is expected Blauwer will take the stand in his own defense late Thursday.

Dartington.—Marked alterations between opposing attorneys and conflicting statements regarding events which led up to the shooting, were made at the afternoon session Wednesday, on the second day of the trial of Herman Blauwer, charged with killing Ernest Stalter, on several occasions the court was called upon to settle disputes arising over the objection of one of the lawyers to the questions hurled by the other at witnesses. Both the district attorney, John J. Boyle, and Frank Conley, attorney for the defense were on their feet at times in heated arguments.

In an excited voice Conley objected to leading questions made by Boyle to the witness, a witness for the state who, Conley alleged, had been an inmate of the county home. Messiman, one of the party at the cheese factory when Stalter was killed, was the last witness of the afternoon. Messiman's testimony was not corroborated by the testimony of preceding witnesses. He claimed Blauwer, before the shooting, threatened to kill him with a gun and that he, Messiman, held Blauwer's arm and kept him from shooting and that he saw them strike each other in the room where the shooting occurred.

Not sure it was a gun, he later said he was not sure it was a gun Blauwer held in his hand until he heard it go off. This brought a sharp rebuke from Boyle, who called for order. Attorney Conley shot several holes in this testimony on cross examination, when he began asking some of the questions which had been asked of the witness on the afternoon of the shooting. The answers did not mesh with the testimony advanced by him on the stand Wednesday afternoon.

Two Policemen and Gun Toter Killed in 2-Hour Street Battle in Toledo

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Toledo.—Thomas Kelley, 48, of Oklahoma, was killed, by police Thursday morning following a battle which had lasted two hours and in which machine guns and hand grenades had been used to dislodge him from his barricaded room in the attic of his boarding house.

Two policemen, Harold Mossbrugger and Harry Dowell, were shot to death by Kelley.

The trouble started when the man refused to pay his room rent and drew a revolver on the men who landed, Mrs. Nellie Key. Police then were called. Hundreds of shots were exchanged between the officers and the solitary gunman.

The roof of the house was demolished by machine guns and hand grenades. Two newspaper reporters caught in the lower part of the house were unable to get out because of the debris which had been piled up by the police and the fugitive, and reported developments of the fight by telephone.

The scene of the battle being only a short distance from the main business section, thousands of persons, attracted by the noise of the shooting, watched the battle.

Arrest Five in Chicago Taxicab War

Chicago.—Five men were arrested and four revolvers seized early Thursday in connection with the murder of a taxicab chauffeur Wednesday night in a renewal of the taxicab drivers' war here.

Police say the guns showed traces of recent use. The dead chauffeur, P. A. Shriver, was standing at a taxicab stand with several friends when a number of men in a passing touring car fired 25 shots at the group.

Drivers of two rival companies fought several battles during the night in one of which another chauffeur was shot in the foot.

The trouble started early in the evening, in the heart of the theatre district, when the cabs of one company attempted to invade the rival stands in front of two loop hotels. Scores of rival taxicabs blocked the streets while several thousand theatre-goers lined the sidewalks to watch. Mounted police reserves attempted to break up the fighting wedges of driving cars, but for more than two hours were unsuccessful.

NOMINATING MEET FAVORED BY HOUSE

Ingalls Bill for Selection of Delegates Passed; Tax Probe Seen.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison.—The party nominating convention as proposed in the Ingalls bill providing for the selection of delegates from 24 voting precincts was given final passage by the assembly Thursday, 48 to 40. The measure was opposed by the La Follette progressives.

Investigation of taxation methods by an interim legislative committee will be considered by assembly next Wednesday as a result of action by the lower house in taking the Ingalls resolution off the table where it has been all session. This step follows on the heels of the finance committee report telling the legislature that no new tax measures are needed at this time.

The committee would be delegated to study changes in principle of revenue raising measures that have been presented to the legislature, including the Grinstead tax on land values, the personal property offset and the income tax proposals.

An additional tax, amounting to one eighth of the assessed value levied against incomes in excess of $3,000, was attached to the $1,000,000 teachers' retirement fund bill by the senate, as a substitute to the Dahl surtax provision.

Further amendment was adopted by the senators providing for the return to Milwaukee of 25 per cent of all revenue collected under the new eighth tax from concerns in the local retirement fund which is in no way connected with the state. This amendment means the loss of $80,000 a year to the state fund. By its action the upper house assumed control of the retirement fund measure. Amendments will go to the lower house for concurrence, which, it is expected, will be refused. The bill itself will remain with the senate.

A final effort to defeat the junior college bill failed in the assembly, 53 to 37. The measure now goes to the senate, and, if signed, will provide for the establishment of not more than five junior colleges. An appropriation of $50,000 will become available in 1922 to be used only as state aid for teachers salaries. Any building program necessary will have to be financed by the city qualifying for one of the colleges.

50 PCT. SPREAD ON MAY MILK MONEY

Marketing Co. Acts to Get Back on Feet—Two Price Plan Proposed.

Milk producers in the Chicago Co-operative Marketing Association will be assured 50 per cent of the total milk receipts for May to right the finances of the Chicago Marketing company.

Also the company during the executive meeting on Wednesday voted to create a two price policy, which will effect the Southern Wisconsin district.

The information was received in a telegram to the Gazette from W. J. Kittle, representative of the company, who spoke at the Orlinville meeting Tuesday.

Effect of Farmers Here

The telegram received is as follows: "Board passed resolution to make spread 50 per cent on May milk. Also passed resolution to create a two price policy, which will effect the Southern Wisconsin district. The company during the executive meeting on Wednesday voted to create a two price policy, which will effect the Southern Wisconsin district. The company during the executive meeting on Wednesday voted to create a two price policy, which will effect the Southern Wisconsin district."

This decision is of paramount importance to the dairy interest in this section. It will materially affect the milk receipts when put into effect, even though Rock county produces the best milk in the district.

Kick on Two Prices

The manner in which the marketing company took to wind up debts and obtain a clean financial slate, it is expected, will meet with general approval of the dairymen in Southern Wisconsin, who are anxious to have the right to take any part or all of milk receipts is reserved in the original contracts. Producers meeting in Milton Junction and in Orlinville have expressed confidence of the marketing company and authorized taking of money other than the 10 per cent spread to put the marketing company on its feet again.

The two price policy is another matter. Producers in Rock county are expected to balk at receiving less money for better milk than that produced in the district.

Reduce Price Here

In Monroe a number of the producers have signed contracts with the Borden company to receive their milk for 10 cents a quart, the Borden company. Under this arrangement they cease to be members of the marketing company.

To sell for what the milk contains in this market would mean from $1.25 to $1.40 a hundredweight as compared to $2.05 this month, the marketing company price.

Producers near Chicago can obtain the top price for the reason the bulk of their milk is sold in the fluid state and therefore more profitable than that selling in Avalon.

Meeting in Avalon

R. K. Overton, president of the Rock county milk producers is in Fond du Lac. Other officers of the county unit will be in the meeting to be held in Avalon on July 1.

One boy and one girl were selected from each grade.

The contest was directed by Miss Florence Snyder, the judges being Miss Ada Ford, Miss Ruth Souham, Miss Hortense Madison, Mrs. Albert Schaller and Mrs. John Rexford.

The contest started at nine in the morning and was not finished before five o'clock, children having 15 minutes for lunch.

The highest school in points, was the Jefferson, winning five places, while the Webster and the Grant each won three, and the Garfield and Lincoln each one.

There are two systems of teaching music now being used in the schools, the progressive and the Hollis-Dunn. It was an interesting fact that in both the local contests which have been held, the schools using the progressive system won over the others. Efforts are being made to have just the one system.

MORGAN TO RULE ON BOND MUDDLE

er, manager of the Oak Grove Cheese factory, how at the party. "It was the bond muddle that is going to pay through taxation."

The committee moved upstairs. Business of starting the meeting was delayed half an hour until Simon Smith brought up the question of whether the press was to be allowed. Paul Pullen and E. J. Haumerson, of the Merchants and Savings bank were present.

The committee after harmless remarks about the weather started to write out the minutes of the meeting. The county clerk appeared with a key to lock the door to assure that the meeting would be private and all prying eyes and ears be kept away while the finance committee was deciding how to handle $18,702.50 worth of the people's funds.

"I was instructed by the committee to lock that door," said County Clerk Lee after the meeting. "It was none of my business and I attempted to do what I was told by the committee. I was only secretary to the meeting."

There was nervous attention when the press representative refused to budge from a public room in a public building. The committee moved to go into executive session but said nothing about protesting the presence of the two bank representatives.

Protest From Bank

In an hour the finance committee came out and it was announced that the county clerk had attempted to do what I was told by the committee. I was only secretary to the meeting."

Protest against the sale of the bonds to the Merchants and Savings bank has been made by the Bank of Southern Wisconsin, designated by the county board to receive the county money. When the board of the county money was turned over to the bank, the bank refused to accept the bonds.

Officers of the Merchants and Savings bank made it plain Thursday that the bonds are fully protected by the county surplus and undivided profits of the bank amounting to more than $800,000. The bonds become the obligation of the bank with its resources, they said.

The bid was explained on the claim that the bonds could not be sold over six percent. So the bid was made to bear 5.5 percent, the bank figuring out where the interest on the bonds was worth to it for two and a half months and adding this on to its bid.

The statement printed Wednesday attributing a statement to John W. Dady, president of the Bank of Southern Wisconsin, that the cost of the bonds to the county would be 10.45 percent or $7700 was not his quotation.

COUNTY ROAD JOB CAN'T BE LET NOW

Bids Are Opened But Bond Mix-Up Prevents Awarding Edgerton Concrete Job.

Bids were opened by the Rock county highway committee for the building of the concrete highway from Indian Ford to Edgerton, on Wednesday afternoon. The award of the contract is held up pending the attempt of the county board finance committee to straighten out the sale of $18,000 worth of gilt edge bonds and go through with the highway work ordered by the county board.

The bid of Fess and Fess, Madison contractors, was 55 cents a cubic yard for grading and $1.40 for concrete surfacing. This bid for surfacing, which is declared reasonable, is based on the county allowing the contractor to obtain gravel over the Rock county line from a Duro county pit.

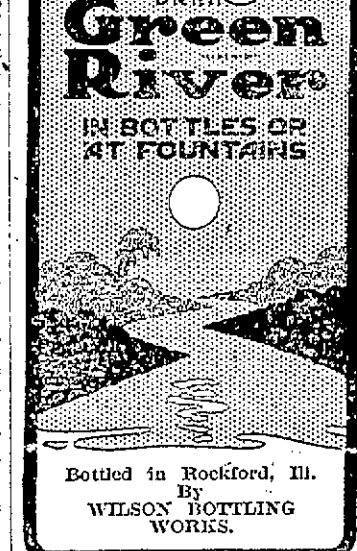

The bid for gravel bought commercially is 11 cents a square yard higher. This price is compared to $1.80 cents a square yard, the low bid last year, and the 1920 figure of $1.25 for grading. One additional bid was received.

The total cost of the mile and a quarter concrete under the bid would be approximately $34,000 or $37,970 a mile.

A contract has been prepared and ready for signing. Nothing definite can be done until the county finance committee straightens out the dispute over the sale of the bonds, through which cash is to be raised to pay for this contract and for the work being done by the county on the Edgerton road.

The county will build the culverts on the upper extensions.

The committee expressed a desire to sign the contracts necessary to allow the building of the road with the contractors.

PASTORS PREACH PUBLIC POLICIES ALONG WITH BIBLE

Value of the pulpit as a publicity medium is being given more recognition than ever.

In the old days when a person went to church all he heard was the regulation church service and sermon. Now community announcements are common with the pastors seeing a direct method of approach to the public.

Hardly a Sunday goes by when the preacher is not asked to put aside the Gospel or regularly prepared sermon and deliver a speech on some community project. There is a willing feeling felt in doing this, but the ministers are beginning to systematize the work and get both the sermon and the speech in during one service.

During the past month there have been requests made to Janesville preachers to make addresses from their pulpits each Sunday. Next Sunday they will devote part of the service to speaking upon the American flag in recognition of flag day next Tuesday.

THE GIRL WHO HAD NO CHANCE

By Marion Rubincam

CHAPTER XIV.
GREAT PLANS

The charge in position had happened quite suddenly. Ruth found herself literally left in charge of a tiny office, with little work and most of the day to herself. Mr. Vance, the real estate man, spent nearly all his time away, sometimes in pursuit of his work, more often at a nearby pool room.

Langley Williams had been in Marktown two weeks. The day after he arrived Ruth had seen him, and decided to change her position, as she did not want to meet him in the factory. She hated the work, too, and when, two days later, she heard that Mr. Vance needed some one in the office, she went down promptly for the place. She wore the simple little serge suit that her aunt had bought her that spring, and the plain little waist that went with it, and felt herself to be quite smart and business-like in appearance.

Her leisure she employed in practicing on the typewriter and making speed in shorthand. She was reading up all articles on business efficiency that she could find.

"And perhaps when I get experience here I can go to the city and apply for a place," she said. "So a week is very high for Marktown. I could double that if I could be private secretary to a man in a big city firm."

Her mother said nothing to this. The big house was well run. Trust Mrs. O'Neil for efficiency there! But the more people it held, the greater were its expenses. Ruth was ready to swear that the furnace gorged coal in an uncanny manner, the bills soared constant reilling, and bed linen would wear out, towels developed strange rents, table cloths had to be purchased. As Mrs. O'Neil said, they "got along," and that was about all. All except that there was always a good table at home now, plenty of food, plenty of hot water.

But Mr. O'Neil growing daily more helpless, as his trouble ran its natural course, became a greater and greater expense. Medicines and doctors should be classed as luxuries. Ruth decided. So, with taxes and repairs and the thousand and one things that came up, the bank account kept even—and that was all.

Langley Williams called on the evening already agreed upon. But he took a sudden fancy to Duncan O'Neil, and the two men spent most of the evening together talking books and travel.

"You've been everywhere," Duncan said. "But you've read all about it, and know more concerning the places I've seen than I do," Williams answered. "And Ruth felt somehow, that she was nothing more than a small child permitted to sit and listen to the grown-up's conversation. Langley Williams paid only polite attention to her."

He came in again, one evening when she had gone to Mrs. Wood's—an intermittent friendship existed there. He came again, when she was taking her short-hand lessons, and still kept these up. He knew the evenings when she was not at home, and he always seemed to call then.

Ruth decided Langley Williams did not like her. "I've no time for men, for flirtations or marriage," she told her mother. "I've a career to make, and every possible handicap to overcome. But I'll be a successful business woman yet. Only it leaves me no time to think of romance."

"You just wait, dearie," Mrs. Belding put in, from her place by the kitchen table. "So Ruth, as Mrs. Belding said, "waited" without knowing what she was waiting for. Meanwhile she made a decision.

"Mother," she said one day, while she was helping with the dinner dishes, it's awfully silly for me to go on as I am. I have no social life at all. I never meet anyone interesting. I haven't heard a new idea for months, not since I've been in the city. There's the new Mr. Williams, of course, but he doesn't like me."

"Well, what are you going to do?" Her mother seemed interested, and Ruth went on—

"I'm going to try some sort of social work among the poor people here as I did at the factory, and I'm going to get up a club for girls and boys my age, so that we can have good times, and learn new things."

"The idea for all this had been in the girl's mind for many weeks. She talked it over with Mrs. Wood, and with a few others, and after a time the result was "The Town Club." This was the old set that Myra and Ruth and Tim had known from childhood, boys and girls from 13 to 25. And as it is always easy to form clubs among people, and as there was no club for social activities in Marktown, this one became a great success. Meetings were held around at various houses, and a grand inaugural

"You just wait, dearie," Mrs. Belding put in, from her place by the kitchen table. "So Ruth, as Mrs. Belding said, "waited" without knowing what she was waiting for. Meanwhile she made a decision.

"Mother," she said one day, while she was helping with the dinner dishes, it's awfully silly for me to go on as I am. I have no social life at all. I never meet anyone interesting. I haven't heard a new idea for months, not since I've been in the city. There's the new Mr. Williams, of course, but he doesn't like me."

"Well, what are you going to do?" Her mother seemed interested, and Ruth went on—

"I'm going to try some sort of social work among the poor people here as I did at the factory, and I'm going to get up a club for girls and boys my age, so that we can have good times, and learn new things."

"The idea for all this had been in the girl's mind for many weeks. She talked it over with Mrs. Wood, and with a few others, and after a time the result was "The Town Club." This was the old set that Myra and Ruth and Tim had known from childhood, boys and girls from 13 to 25. And as it is always easy to form clubs among people, and as there was no club for social activities in Marktown, this one became a great success. Meetings were held around at various houses, and a grand inaugural danced was given in the high school gymnasium.

Ruth spent much of her leisure time on this. Applications came in from all sides, but they tried to limit it to the most congenial people they knew. And the night before the dance, Ruth received a short note, which flattered and pleased her.

It said: "Am I to have the honor of taking the club's founder to the club's first dance?" And it was signed "Langley Williams."

"That's the first I knew he had ever noticed me," she commented. "Oh, you just wait, dearie!" little Mrs. Belding put in.

Capt. Jonah's Fortune

By JAMES A. COOPER
Copyright by Geo. Sully Co.

"Hi-mighty!" exclaimed the storekeeper, a light dawned on his face. "You don't mean to say that little fellow told you he had money to burn?"
"I wouldn't make much of a smoke if I burned it all," said Capt. Jonah dryly. "No, sir, what little I had when I landed here will soon be gone if I let Sarah Pettie take it away from me at the rate she has been doing."

He went on to tell of how the young girl was made to suffer, as well as of the indignities heaped upon himself of late.
Capt. Abe listened with full appreciation and sympathy. "Liphalet broke in to say: 'I tell him if he could make them Pettys just think he was rich as they first thought—he could carry things with a high hand. Make 'em treat Pearly better, too.'"

"Hi-mighty!" agreed Capt. Abe. "It's a good plan an' well taken. Might be done. Is that what ye want my advice?"
"Well," said Capt. Jonah, "Truitt said you was a great fellow for schemin' out things."

Capt. Abe smiled broadly. "How fur would ye be willing to go, Capt. Jonah?" he asked. "I mean, how close could you trim your sails to the bare bones of truth. Ordinarily I don't believe in lyin'. But, if follow me to the employment office."

"That's it," ejaculated Liphalet eagerly.
"I'd be willing to go purty far," growled Capt. Jonah.

Capt. Abe slipped his knee smartly. "Nough said!" he ejaculated. "Leave it to me, Capt. Jonah. You come in again soon. I'll have somethin' cooked up for ye. I don't want to see you here, but I'm deeply disturbed in my mind. He began to feel that in the homely phraseology of the community, he had allowed his leg to be pulled every Christmas all these ten years. He was a 'good thing' he had made the mistake of trying to buy (so he now thought) the love and friendship he craved as a lonely and disappointed man. It was true that heretofore he had enjoyed doing his bit and giving his thoughts and time to the children's holiday. But now, as this Christmas loomed near, the thought of hanging a tree with presents and packing a bag with goodies for the little ones filled him with loathing.

The next day the members of the Ladies Aid Society were appraised—and surprised—of the fact that the ex-soldier refused to contribute in any way toward the approaching Christmas celebration. He had stated to the committee that approached him, with a finality that could not possibly be misunderstood, his determination not to act in the capacity of Santa Claus at the Marine's chapel, or help in any way whatsoever.

Dinner Stories

Much has been written about diplomatic caddies. This caddy went a step too far, however. The enthusiastic golfer, with an easy approach to a creek at one side. "That reminds me of Jeff Courtney's golfing."

he remarked to himself. "The caddy, wanting to know how the wind lay before saying much, queried, 'Is he on the outs with you?'"

"Your new planist didn't stay long?" "I had to let him go," said the musician, as he liked to be playing a jazz selection when people were dying on the screen."

"Didn't he offer an explanation?" "Oh, yes. He said circumstances compelled him to accept employment in a movie house, but he would be glad to look at the pictures."

Joan was to have a birthday party, having attained the enormous age of 6 years. She was very anxious indeed to comport herself correctly, and was playing her mother with questions.

"Mother, dear," said her mother, in answer to one concerning the advisability of saying grace before the meal, for such an informal little party I hardly think you need say grace."

"Accordingly, when all the little guests were seated round the table, Joan from the head announced solemnly: 'Mother says this is such an informal little party, we need not say grace.'"

What Shall I Do?

Answered by VIRGINIA PAGE
All inquiries addressed to Miss Page in care of the "What Shall I Do?" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, the stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the questions. —The Editor.

Where the Trouble Lies
"Dear Miss Page: Do you consider it improper to allow boys to put their arms around you? Some say it makes no difference if it is carried no further.—Phyllis and Betty."

It does make a difference, girls. Phyllis and Betty are proper because all decent, refined people consider it so. And the reason they consider it improper is largely because of the difficulty of carrying it no further.

In the first place, why should the boys hug you? What good does it do? There's a thrill about it. All right, then, if you are seeking the thrill with no thought of propriety or danger, why stop with the hug? Oh, girls, you have to draw the line somewhere—and the place to stop doing anything dangerous is before you ever begin. I'm not going to tell you that just letting a boy put his arm around you will hurt you, because you know that isn't true. But I am going to swear to you that if you do let the boys hug you, there will come a time when you will wish you had never let them.

Give the boys an inch and they will want another—and try to take it, girls. Mind you, I'm not running down the boys—I like them. But I'm telling you that it is born in them as part of their nature to "carry it no further"—there will come a boy harder than the others have been to refuse—there will come a great big heartache and regret.

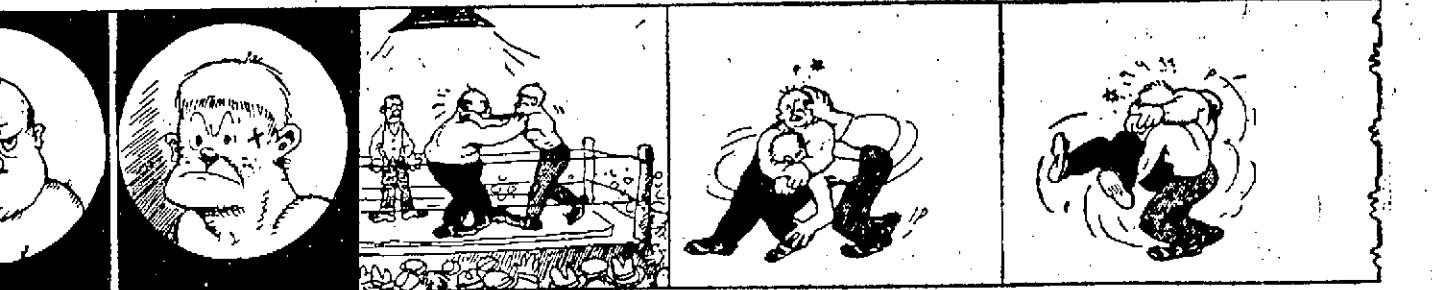

Too Late
I am very sorry. "Forget-me-not" and "Dot" that your questions concerning May Day came much too late for me to answer them in the column. I will be glad to help you for a personal reply when you want it by a given date next time, and allow at least two weeks and as much more as you can. Remember, I cannot answer questions in the column on any certain day, or before any given time.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 22 and have been going with a young man of 23 for almost two years. He got so jealous I could not have any pleasure.

Now he and I have stopped going together and he says I am the cause of it all. I am so worried I can't enjoy myself. I have written him telling him I am very sorry for what I did and asked him to come back, but he doesn't seem to care.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a good-looking girl of 17. I do not want proper but I am consoled when I say I am good-looking, because my friends say I am one of the best-looking girls in our town.

I am in love with a man eight years my senior who is a traveling man who sells things in his car. He said he loved me and we were going to get married in June. He also says me things.

There is a bad girl in this town who just came here from another city. I saw my fellow with her one night. I don't think he was nice. What do you think? My parents want me to marry him.

There are "gay deceivers" in every profession, and especially among traveling men. The very nature of the work makes it possible for a man with large morals to do just about as he pleases.

I am in love with a man eight years my senior who is a traveling man who sells things in his car. He said he loved me and we were going to get married in June. He also says me things.

Heals Running Sores and Conquers Piles
Also Stops All Itching of Eczema All-Over the Body

"I felt it my duty to write you a letter of thanks for your wonderful Peterson's Ointment. I had a running sore on my left leg for one year. I began to use Peterson's Ointment three weeks ago and now it is healed. A. C. Gilbreth, 705 Reed Street, Erie, Pa."

"I'd rather get a letter like that from Peterson of Buffalo, than have John D. Rockefeller give me a thousand dollars. It does me a lot of good to be able to be of use to my fellow men."

For years I have been selling through druggists a large box of Peterson's Ointment for 50 cents. The healing power in this ointment is marvelous. Eczema goes in a few days. Old sores heal up by magic; piles that other remedies do not seem to even relieve are speedily cured.

It stops itching in five minutes and for scalds and burns it is simply wonderful. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

Daisy was so overcome by these harsh, disagreeable words, which were untrue, as no one could be more modest than she or less conceited, that she began to cry. Not so the red heifer whose name was Red Brick because she was such a brick of a friend and always stood up for any one who was abused or misrepresented. Tossing her head high in the air, she said, "I guess if you heard anything against Daisy, it was yourself that said it, for all the cows on the place know that you are the most disagreeable, ill-natured cow on the farm, besides being the most spiteful gossip."

Frost backed off a step or two and started at Red Brick as if her ears must be deceiving her, for how else would a young heifer dare to talk back to her, yes, her, Mistress Frost, the most feared cow of the herd. But there was no mistake for Red Brick started back at her and said, "I mean every word of it."

This infuriated Frost and she made a lunge at Red Brick and would have run her sharp horns into Red Brick's side, but she dropped her head just in time to look horns, and they would have had a fierce fight then and there had not Shep happened along just then and separated them by snapping at Frost's legs. He knew whose legs to snap at for he well knew Frost's habit of picking a quarrel. He barked and snapped at them at first, and then when she did not stop, he gave her a bite on the leg, which made her try to kick him, but he was too quick for her and her leg only hit a post as nearly knocked it over. Then he took hold of her tail and held on while she went running around the barnyard. If there was anything she detested, it was to have a dog hang onto her tail, and she would have hooked Shep clear over the top of the barn had she the chance. When Shep succeeded in getting her on the other side of the yard he let go her tail and trotted back to where the two young heifers were, meeting and he was listening to them tell the beginning of the quarrel, when Thompson, as the old tomat called the meeting to order. (Friday will tell of the famous cluck where the two young heifers were, meetings)

THE NEW UNIVERSITIES DICTIONARY ILLUSTRATED

His paper, devoted to public welfare, fighting for better education, always seeking to give men and women, boys and girls, more chances for self-advancement, has secured for its readers the exclusive rights to the only dictionary containing the thousands of new words recently brought into general and proper use by scientific, religious, artistic and political advances.

All other dictionaries are out of date. Every dictionary printed before this one is useless. You cannot understand the big ideas that are rebuilding the world unless you have The New Universities Dictionary constantly at hand in home and office for quick reference.

The leading English and Latin teachers of five great universities have contributed articles to this dictionary: Percy W. Long, A.M., Ph.D., of Harvard; Clark S. Northrup, Ph.D., of Cornell; John C. Rolfe, Ph.D., of Pennsylvania; Forrest S. Lunt, A.M., of Columbia; Morris W. Croll, Ph.D., of Princeton, and the Editor-in-Chief is George J. Hagar, whose biographical sketch in "Who's Who in America" takes up about a half column to relate his great services to education.

The New Universities Dictionary has not a dry line in the whole book—every page is of vital interest. Besides the best vocabulary ever printed, it contains twenty-two separate and distinct vocabularies of special activities, such as automobiling, golf, war, aviation, music, and many other arts, sciences and sports. Furthermore, it presents special dictionaries of Americanisms, foreign words and phrases, etc.

The book that this paper thus places within your grasp at the bare cost of handling is illustrated with expensive pictures, alone worth more than the reader is asked to contribute to the cost of distributing. It is profuse in page and double-page color plates, an absolutely new process of photographic reproduction.

Word-study is the short-cut to self-education. A well-stocked brain and a well-trained tongue provide the right word at the right time, and a whole fortune changes hands. That's the way millionaires are made. Make your start today. This paper presents the opportunity with the valuable coupon found elsewhere.

17 Boys' Bands Are Expected at Elkhorn Contest

Elkhorn.—Many Wisconsin bands, composed of boys under 21 years old, will compete at the state contest at Elkhorn June 21-22. Instruments will be awarded to the best bands by manufacturers and medals will be awarded to the largest band in attendance. The city of Elkhorn is offering $400 to be awarded to the three best bands. HEALTH OFFICER MAY QUIT IF SALARY IS NOT RAISED TO $600

Monroe.—Dr. George A. Seiler, public health officer, is trying apparently in vain to have his pay raised here. He wants "all of $50 a month" and pressed a desire to sympathize, but not a word was said about an increase. The doctor threatens to quit.

LAKE VICTIM BURIED AT NEW GLARUS HOME

New Glarus.—Funeral services for Melvin Engler, University of Wisconsin student, who was drowned in Lake Mendota, were held this week at his home here. Rev. G. D. Ellinger officiated. Members of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity attended. The American Legion had charge of the services at the grave.

ITALIAN SWINDLERS CAUGHT IN NEW YORK

Beloit.—Evidio Bernacchi and Enrico Barsanti, Beloit Italians, who fled Wisconsin to New York after working an age old swindle game on Angelo Nesliti, have been caught in New York and have settled. They were traced by Detective Dan G. Torrist. The two Italians enticed Nesliti to withdraw his savings in Beloit on the claim Barsanti had a large inheritance coming from Italy, which would take funds to obtain. The three were to split even. In Chicago, Nesliti had the money in a suit case which was switched on him.

WOMAN AND 8 SONS IN FIRST REUNION IN FIFTEEN YEARS

Monroe.—For the first time in 15 years, Mrs. Magdalena Mueller, Monroe, gathered with her eight living sons. The reunion was for the funeral of the ninth, Sergeant Ernest Mueller, killed in action. Mrs. Mueller had six sons in the service—a record for Southern Wisconsin. Ernest was the only son who did not come back. Fred Mueller, a corporal, was wounded, but recovered. A military funeral was held here for the sergeant. Chaplain William Peter, Milwaukee. Rev. P. A. Schuch, Monroe, and the American Legion took part in the services.

AMERICAN LEGION HEAD IS KILLED

He was one of the best known citizens of Cincinnati. He was a prominent businessman and was one of the most prominent politicians in the United States. He was colonel of the old first regiment, Ohio National guard, and when the war broke out he recruited that regiment to war strength and it was mustered into federal service as the 147th regiment, 37th division. At its head he went overseas and took a prominent part in the battles of St. Mihiel, the Argonne and later in Belgium. For personal bravery he was decorated by the French and Belgian governments and was honored by the United States government. Colonel Galbraith was about 50 years old. He leaves a widow and two children, a boy about to enter college and a girl of 10. "Fighting Colonel." He was elected national commander of the American Legion on Sept. 29 last. By leading his regiment through the German lines, under fire, he won the title of the "fighting colonel of the fighting force." As head of the American Legion he has been active in behalf of the organization in urging legislation favorable to ex-service men. In civilian life Colonel Galbraith was president of the Western Paper Goods company of Cincinnati.

As a youth the legion head was a sailor. He once passed the entrance examination to Annapolis, but never matriculated. WILL CALL ELECTION TO NAME NEW COMMANDER Indianapolis.—An election probably will be held here early next week to name Mr. Galbraith's successor, national headquarters announced. The new commander will be named by the legion's national executive committee, composed of one representative of the organization from each of the states and territorial departments. The national vice commanders, one of whom probably will be elected, include J. C. Emery, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Claudius G. Pendell, Racine. L. R. Gignilliat, commander of the Indiana department of the legion, ordered all posts to fly their flags at half mast for a period of 30 days.

PRESIDENT SENDS MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY TO WIDOW Washington.—President Harding telegraphed a message of sympathy Thursday to Mrs. F. W. Galbraith, Jr. "Please know of my sympathy in the great and sudden sorrow which has come to you," the message said. "It was my fortune to know Colonel Galbraith, not alone as the national commander of the American Legion, but as a fellow citizen of Ohio, and I have highly valued his commanding personality, his tireless zeal and his intense devotion to country and his companions in arms. The Legion and the nation share with you the great loss which has come so suddenly.
